The Court has read each parent's essay. The Court appreciates the thoughtfulness given by the parties as reflected in each of their essays. Based on the essays, the Court agrees that steps are needed to try to limit the points of conflict between the parents. Therefore,

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that on or before April 30, 2007, each parent shall submit to the Court a brief, not exceeding six pages in length (including any attachments), addressing why the Court should not order the following:

1. Parents are not to discuss parenting time issues with the children until resolved between the parents.
2. Parents are to keep litigation documents and e-mails between parents in a secure place.
3. Eliminate non-emergency telephone contact between the parents.
